

CO-CHAIRS

Hon. Mary Ellen Turpel-Lafond, Aki-Kwe, Senior Associate Counsel, Woodward & Company LLP; Professor, Peter A. Allard School of Law; and Academic Director of the Indian Residential School Centre for History and Dialogue, University of British Columbia, Victoria & Vancouver, BC. Dr. Turpel-Lafond is a member of the Indigenous bar as well as the Law Societies of British Columbia, Nova Scotia and Saskatchewan. She was a Saskatchewan Provincial Court judge for 20 years (1998-2018) and served as B.C.'s first Representative for Children and Youth from 2006-2016, an independent Officer of the Legislative Assembly. During her time on the bench, Professor Turpel-Lafond was actively involved in projects relating to improve supports for Indigenous peoples, especially in addressing the unique circumstances and needs of children and youth involved in the justice system. Her work as Representative for Children and Youth included detailed and systemic examination of the child serving system and she advocated for the human rights of children, resulting in many needed improvements. Professor Turpel-Lafond holds a Doctorate in Law from Harvard Law School (SJD), a Masters in international law from Cambridge University (Gonville and Caius College), a JD from Osgoode Hall at York University and a Bachelor of Arts degree from Carleton University. She also holds a Certificate in the International and Comparative Law of Human Rights from the University of Strasbourg. She was awarded the distinction of Indigenous Peoples' Counsel from the Indigenous Bar Association in 2006, and has been awarded honorary degrees from nine Canadian universities and schools of Law.

Maegen Giltrow, Partner, Ratcliff & Company LLP, North Vancouver, BC. Maegen works in litigation, negotiation and law & policy development. For the past 16 years she has primarily represented First Nations, spending several years working exclusively in all areas of Aboriginal litigation. She has helped develop inaugural laws for self-governance under treaty, and her interest and experience in governance matters expanded as she has broadened her legal practice to advising and representing local governments, landowners and others in public law matters. Over the past few years she has become involved in seeking reforms to child welfare practice. She was one of four independent Panel members to inquire, report and make recommendations to improve outcomes for indigenous children and families for the Huu-ay-aht First Nation, and has been a member of the Task Force overseeing implementation of those recommendations since 2017. She has also acted as counsel for the Nation and for Indigenous and non-Indigenous parents in CFCSA matters, including in L.S. v British Columbia (Director of Child, Family and Community Services), securing an order under BC Supreme Court parens patriae jurisdiction to protect the maternal/infant bond and nursing for an Indigenous mother and infant.

June 11th & 12th, 2019 • UBC Robson Square • Vancouver, BC

Live Webinar also available!

INDIGENOUS CHILD WELFARE

Indigenous children are disproportionately represented in Canada's child welfare system. Harmful policies and practices have impacted generations of Indigenous children and torn communities apart. Change is needed, but slow to come. All those who work in this difficult area must band together to prevent any more children from falling through the cracks, and to protect the best interests of Indigenous children.

This program assembles leading experts from Indigenous communities, legal practice, the judiciary and government to highlight pressing issues and upcoming changes in the field of Indigenous child welfare. Delegates will gain a solid understanding of this challenging area of practice and have the opportunity to expand their knowledge and exchange ideas.

KEY AREAS ADDRESSED:

- The historical landscape for Indigenous children and youth
- Indigenous child and family matters in practice and before the Courts
- First Nation, Provincial and Federal legislative developments and jurisdiction over child welfare
- Youth in the foster care system
- The impact of human rights matters, reconciliation and UNDRIP

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

- Indigenous leaders, officials, councillors, elders, negotiators, administrators, and advisors
- Family law practitioners, lawyers, mediators and arbitrators
- Child services workers
- Federal, provincial, territorial and municipal government officials and policy advisors
- Lawyers and members of the judiciary presiding over cases involving Indigenous children or their rights

YOUTH SPONSORSHIP PROGRAM

We are pleased to offer our successful sponsorship program for First Nation, Métis and Inuit youth to attend forums offered by Pacific Business & Law Institute. For further information about applying to attend this or other programs, please go to www.pbli.com/aboriginal-youth-sponsorship.
